The NRFU invites reviewers for collaboration

Become a Reviewer

The National Research Foundation of Ukraine (NRFU) invites you to participate in a peer review of project proposals submitted through Calls for Project Proposals.

The NRFU is Ukraine's only public grant-making agency for fundamental and applied projects in all fields of research and developments. Established in 2018, it made its first competitive awards in 2020 and has continued even during the war, but at a reduced level. The NRFU grant season in 2022 was suspended because of the Russian invasion. In early March 2022, 100% of the 2022 grant budget allocated to the National Research Foundation of Ukraine was redirected to cover the defense needs. Over the course of the three years since 2020, it has made 216 competitive grants to Ukrainian researchers for a total of $33,683,812/EUR28,743,721.

Apart from money, one of the critical needs of the NRFU at the present time is to expand the number of international experts willing to review NRFU proposals. The role of international reviewers is highly beneficial to such a young democracy like Ukraine. Becoming an international reviewer for NRFU is an easy way for members of the global scientific community to help Ukraine at this critical time by simply doing what they already do well – evaluating proposals. By volunteering as an NRFU foreign expert, you can be sure that you are contributing to the future of research and development of Ukraine by helping to select and support the best researchers for support, not only through grant support but also by bringing them closer to the global scientific community and its standards.

To join NRFU as an expert, you should:

1. Register in the system following the link: <https://grants.nrfu.org.ua/>
2. Fill out your expert profile in the system.
